

[24/06/08][21:16:39] -

Title: Chicken Fighting Tips

Author: Chicken Fight Club

If anybody has more to add, please do!

CHICKEN FIGHTING 101
Tame, Bond, & Train
a Greater Chicken.
TAME one at the Jhelom Bullpen.

runbook on bar.)
BOND it by leaving it in a stable for a full week
& then feeding it Hay.
TRAIN it by fighting
farm animals, hinds, wolfs,
bears & on to monsters
such as ettin.
FIGHT other trained chickens for prizes, cash & glory! (1 mil at LIFE's monthly Chicken Fight :)
- db 4Jan09

<*> Chickens eat hay which can be bought from npc farmers.
- Invincible Dawn (See green runbook on bar for NPC Farmer)

<*> A Friend of mine met my character on a bridge, and I noticed he was followed by a bonded chicken. Naturally, I asked,
and he replied: "Dude, Haven't you seen my chicken? It's a Dragon Killer!" He promptly demonstrated, and yes, the chicken flattened an ogre, only losing 1/6 of its HP bar (apparently He's been training it a while)...

I'm a believer.

<*> Player Quote:

"Gained from 110-115 Vet while training the Greater Chicken on other animals."

- uo.stratics.com post

<*> Pen up chicken and cast clumsy on him to bring up resist skill.

- Ala Bama

(You can use the enclosed sparring pit up the stairs.)

<*> Once your chicken has 50+ hit points, try fighting gaman for faster gains.

- Aife

<*> I hear they happen to be fond of beer as well,, but i`m not sure how that relates to fighting them? :P

- Anon

<*> OMG man! NEVER provoke a chicken when he's drinking!

- Tokuno Joe

<*> The Wasteland in Tokuno is a good place to train.

- Pallas Athena